

About the Global Scale of English

The Global Scale of English (GSE) is the standardised, granular and global measure of English language proficiency

It is the result of the most comprehensive, on-going research with 6,000 teachers from 50 countries ever conducted in the field.

Measuring from 10 to 90, the GSE scale was developed in response to on-going issues with existing scales and new opportunities for a granular approach to progress.

Why a scale of 10 - 90?

There's not enough language below 10 to measure accurately. Above 90 there are not enough differences to measure (plus, no one is perfect in a language!)
