

RETAIL MARKETING MANAGEMENT

PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE

Helen Goworek
Peter McGoldrick

RETAIL MARKETING MANAGEMENT

Retail Marketing Management

Table of Contents

Cover

Title Page

Copyright

Brief contents

Contents

Preface

About the authors

Acknowledgements

CHAPTER 1 Introduction to retail marketing management

Introduction

Definitions of retailing

History and development of retail marketing

The development and scope of retail marketing theory and practice

Retail industry associations

Retailer categories

Retail business formats

Non-store retailing (home shopping)

Retail concepts and theories

The retail life cycle

Recent developments affecting the retail environment

Retailing management

The future of retailing

Studying retail marketing

Exercises and questions

References

Further reading

Case study: Re-evaluating the store

Table of Contents

CHAPTER 2 Retail marketing strategy

Introduction

Retail marketing strategy

Retail marketing planning

Situation analysis

SWOT analysis

Mission statements

Setting goals and objectives

Identifying consumers

Developing retail strategies

Implementation of the marketing plan

Internal and external marketing audits

Market attractiveness

Value chain

Sources of competitive advantage

Market penetration and diversification

Portfolio analysis

Competitive marketing objectives

Marketing strategy in relation to HRM and finance strategy

Chapter summary

Exercises and questions

References

Further reading

Case study: WH Smith upbeat despite sales doldrums

CHAPTER 3 Retail consumer behaviour and market segmentation

Introduction

Retail consumer behaviour and attitudes

Consumer motivation and needs

Consumer decision-making

Experiential consumer behaviour

Influences on consumer purchasing behaviour

Table of Contents

Customer loyalty

Negative consumer behaviour

Customer profiles

Retail marketing research

Chapter summary

Exercises and questions

References

Further reading

Case study: Targeting the female consumer

CHAPTER 4 Retail product and brand management

Introduction

New product development

The Product Life Cycle

Retail product assortment

The product/service continuum

Brand management

Brand names

Brand identity and brand image

Brand equity

Brand extensions

Retail brand positioning - perceptual maps

Rebranding

Branded and own-label merchandise

Chapter summary

Exercises and questions

References

Further reading

Case study: GLOBAL brands - ups and downs: Consumers luxuriate in shopping on the web

CHAPTER 5 Retail buying and merchandising

Introduction

Table of Contents

Buying and merchandising roles
Centralised and decentralised buying
Organisational buying theories
Buying branded and 'designer' merchandise
Buying own-label merchandise
The retail buying cycle
Retail buying for online and mail order (home shopping) companies
Supply chain management and stock control by retailers
Retail space planning and allocation
Retail sales forecasting and budget planning
Chapter summary
Exercises and questions
References
Further reading
Case study: Supply chain - back to the source

CHAPTER 6 Retail pricing

Introduction
Retail market levels - mass market, middle market and luxury
Retail pricing - objectives and strategies
Implementing demand-based pricing strategies
Calculating retail prices
Price elasticity
The relationship between price and value
Markdowns: seasonal sales, reductions and offers
Chapter summary
Exercises and questions
References
Further reading
Case study: Price Wars threaten to reshape landscape of supermarkets

CHAPTER 7 Retail marketing communications By Helen Goworek and Kristine Pole

Table of Contents

Introduction

Retail marketing communication strategies

Retail advertising

Public relations

Sponsorship

Sales promotions

Direct marketing

Retail marketing communications via digital and social media

Word-of-mouth

Personal selling

Relationship marketing

Chapter summary

Exercises and questions

References

Further reading

Case study: Marketing communications at Superdry

CHAPTER 8 Retail location By John Pal

Introduction

Why are locations important - even in the digital world?

A framework for location decision-making

What types of locations do retailers use?

How do retailers make location decisions?

Site-specific issues

The planning system

Chapter summary

Exercises and questions

References

Case study: Rolling out a new breed of local discount store

CHAPTER 9 Retail design and layout

Introduction

Retail store design

Table of Contents

Visual merchandising

Retail atmosphere

The non-store retail selling environment

Chapter summary

Exercises and questions

References

Further reading

Case study: Anthropologie moves out of London

CHAPTER 10 Retail customer service By Sheilagh Resnick

Introduction

Characteristics of services

Service quality models

The service encounter

Electronic service delivery

Service culture

Service recovery

Chapter summary

Exercises and questions

References

Further reading

Case study 1: Customer service at Boots UK

Case study 2: Self-scan checkouts

CHAPTER 11 Multichannel retailing By Anthony Kent

Introduction

Mail order

Direct marketing

Online retailing

Consumer engagement

Long tail effect

New technology

Website design

Table of Contents

Online communications
Fulfilment and delivery systems
Multichannel retailing
Chapter summary
Exercises and questions
References
Further reading
Case study: Asos

CHAPTER 12 Legislation and ethics in retailing

Introduction
Legislation and regulations affecting retailing
Pricing
Promotion
Product
Place (location)
Legislation and ethics within the extended marketing mix
Sustainability and corporate social responsibility
Social sustainability
Environmental sustainability
Chapter summary
Exercises and questions
References
Further reading
Case study: Some challenges in product sourcing in global retail supply chains

CHAPTER 13 International retail marketing and emerging markets

By Lisa Qixun Siebers

Introduction
Defining international retailing
International retailing and its development
The international retail environment: an emerging market perspective
Psychic distance

Table of Contents

Infrastructure and distribution in emerging markets

Retail internationalisation strategies

Chapter summary

Exercises and questions

References

Further reading

Case study: Indonesia's ecommerce industry awakens

Glossary

Index