

A silver spoon is positioned diagonally across the cover, starting from the left edge and curving towards the right. The spoon's bowl is at the right end, pointing towards the title.

Simple and Usable

web, mobile, and interaction design

Giles Colborne

A silver spoon is positioned diagonally across the left side of the cover, with its handle extending from the top left and its bowl pointing towards the bottom right.

Simple and Usable

web, mobile, and interaction design

Giles Colborne

New Riders

VOICES THAT MATTER™

Simple and Usable Web, Mobile, and Interaction Design

Table of Contents

Contents

Part 1 Why are we here?

- A story about simplicity
- The power of simplicity
- Increasing complexity is unsustainable
- Not that kind of simple
- Character
- Fake simplicity
- Know yourself

Part 2 Setting a vision

- Two ways to describe what's core
- Get out of your office
- What to look for
- Three types of user
- Why you should ignore expert customers
- Design for the mainstream
- What mainstreamers want
- Emotional needs
- Simplicity is about control
- Choosing the right "what"
- Describing the user experience

Table of Contents

Putting it all together
World, character, plot
Extreme usability
The quick and dirty way
Insight
Getting the right vision
Share it

Part 3 Four strategies for simplicity

Simplify this
The remote control
The four strategies

Part 4 Remove

Remove
How not to do it
Focus on what's core
Kill lame features
What if the user...?
But our customers want it
Solutions, not processes
When features don't matter
Will it hurt?
Prioritizing features
Load
Decisions
Distractions
Smart defaults

Table of Contents

Options and preferences

When one option is too many

Errors

Visual clutter

Removing words

Simplifying sentences

Removing too much

You can do it

Focus

Part 5 Organize

Organize

Chunking

Organizing for behavior

Hard edges

Alphabets and formats

Search

Time and space

Grids

Size and location

Layers

Color coding

Desire paths

Part 6 Hide

Hide

Infrequent but necessary

Customizing

Table of Contents

Automatic customization

Progressive disclosure

Staged disclosure

X doesn't mark the spot

Cues and clues

Making things easy to find

After you hide

Part 7 Displace

Displace

Displacing between devices

Mobile vs. desktop

Displacing to the user

What users do best

Creating open experiences

Kitchen knives and pianos

Unstructured data

Trust

Part 8 Before we go

Conservation of complexity

Details

Simplicity happens in the user's head

Photo Credits

Index