'We will use this book for all of our coaching sessions.'

John Curtis, CEO, Peer Support Programme

THE LITTLE BOOK OF

76 ways to help managers get the best out of people

Bob Bates

PRAISE FOR BOB BATES AND THE LITTLE BOOK OF BIG COACHING MODELS

'All of our managers were given copies of The Little Book of Big Management Theories. It has become our workplace bible. We have over 100 full-time and volunteer coaches, mentors and support workers working for YSS who we will recommend this book to.'

Lorraine Preece - Chief Executive, YSS Training

'Like Bob's first book, this should be essential reading for all busy managers who want to get the best out of their workforce.'

Alan Shaw - Managing Director, Regent Engineering

'I have a bookshelf of management and coaching books. Bob's first book has pride of place. I look forward to the next one.'

Jo Morgan - Managing Director, Charlie's Training Academy

'Just a joy to read: Funny in parts, sad in others but always thought-provoking.'

Manny Sandhu - Director, Ubique

'We will use this book for all of our coaching sessions.'

John Curtis - CEO, Peer Support Programme

'It has been a pleasure to work with Bob. His work in coaching the village management team in the Gambia has been wonderful. I have recommended his book to colleagues at Banjul University as essential reading.'

Ibrahim Jallow - Chair, The Wonder Years Centre of Excellence (Gambia)

'Bob has been inspirational in helping us to provide a quality coaching and peer support service to ex-servicemen. I can't wait for his book to come out.'

Len Hardy - Director, The Veterans Contact Point

'I would strongly recommend that anybody completing either a CMI or ILM Level 5 Diploma in Leadership and Management should have this book.'

Chris Hooper – Training and Development Director, Eurosource Solutions

The Little Book of Big Coaching Models PDF eBook: 83 ways to help managers get the best out of people

Table of Contents

Cover

Contents

About the author

Acknowledgements

How to use this book

Introduction

Part 1: Making a start

Introduction

Section 1: Understand how people think and learn

Introduction

Malcolm Knowles: How adults learn

Neil Fleming: VAK

David Kolb: Experiential learning cycle

Katherine Myers and Isabel Briggs: The Myers-Briggs

Type Indicator

Section 2: Understand what motivates people

Introduction

John Keller: The ARCS model of motivational design

Douglas McGregor: X and Y theory

Frederick Herzberg: Hygiene factors and KITAs

Section 3: Be a good communicator

Introduction

Michael Argyle: The communication cycle model

Eric Berne: Transactional analysis

Joseph Luft and Harry Ingram: Johari windows

Section 4: Set the right objectives

Introduction

Benjamin Bloom: Levels in the cognitive domain

Ravindrakumar Dave: Levels in the psychomotive domain

David Krathwol and Benjamin Bloom: Levels in the affective domain

Section 5: Coaching through directing

Introduction

Ivan Pavlov: Classical conditioning Edwin Guthrie: Contiguity theory

Robert Merton: Self-fulfilling prophecy

Section 6: Coaching through facilitating

Introduction

Abraham Maslow: Hierarchy of needs

Carl Rogers: Facilitation

Jack Mezirow: Transformational learning

Section 7: Coaching through showing others how to do it

Introduction

The Gestaltists: Insight theory

Karl Pribram, George Miller and Eugene Gallanter:

Test-Operate-Test-Exit (TOTE)

Albert Bandura: Role modelling

Section 8: Coaching through stimulating

Introduction

Donald Hebb: Associative learning

Leon Festinger: Cognitive dissonance

Michael Merzenich: Neuroplasticity

Section 9: Dealing with challenging behaviour

Introduction

Kurt Lewin: Reshaping behaviour

Peter Honey: Behaviour modification

Robert Hare: Psychopathic checklist

Summary of Part 1

Part 2: Taking it further

Introduction

Richard Bandler and John Grinder:

Neuro-Linguistic Programming (NLP)

Gregory Bateson: Neuro-logical levels

Donald Broadbent: Filtering

Marty Brounstein: The Five Pillars for Building

Commitment

Arthur Costa and Bena Kallick: The coach as a critical friend

Edward De Bono: The six thinking hats

Robert Dilts: The Disney creativity strategy

Gerard Egan: The skilled helper model

Ferdinand Fournies: Coaching discussion plan

Tim Gallwey: The inner game

Howard Gardner: Multiple intelligence

Andrew Gilbert and Karen Whittleworth: The OSCAR

model

Daniel Goleman: Emotional intelligence

Bruce Grimley: The 7Cs coaching model

John Grinder: New Behaviour Generator

Richard Hale and Eileen Hutchinson: The INSIGHT coaching cycle

Peter Hawkins: The CLEAR model

Jon Kabat-Zinn: Mindfulness

Max Landsberg: The Tao of coaching

David Lane and Sarah Corrie: Purpose, perspectives and process

Angus McLeod: The STEPPPA model

Alec McPhedran: The GENIUS model

Eric Parsloe and Monika Wray: The Seven Golden

Rules of Simplicity

Jenny Rogers: The Six Principles of Coaching

Virginia Satir: Anchoring and self-coaching

John Sweller: Cognitive load theory

John Whitmore: The GROW model

Summary of Part 2

Part 3: Coaching the organisation for better performance

Introduction

Section 1: Coaching organisational leaders

Introduction

John Adair: Action-centred leadership

Bernard Bass: Transformational leadership

Richard Boyatzis: Self-directed learning

Section 2: Be better than your competitors

Introduction

Mike Pedlar, John Burgoyne and Tom Boydell: The Learning Company

Chris Argyris and Donald Scho``n: Triple-loop learning

Peter Senge: The fifth discipline

Section 3: Get the workplace culture right

Introduction

Edgar Schein: The three levels of organisational culture

Carl Steinhoff and Robert Owens : Cultural metaphors

Charles Handy: The culture gods

Section 4: Be better at planning

Introduction

Gerry Johnson and Kevan Scholes: Seven stages of strategic planning

The McKinsey Group: 7S Framework model

Mary Bitner and Bernard Booms : The 7Ps marketing mix

Section 5: Manage quality

Introduction

Joseph Juran: The 8020 rule the vital few and the trivial many

William Edwards-Deming: 14 points for quality management

Phil Crosby: The maturity grid

Section 6: Respond to change

Introduction

John Kotter: Eight-step approach

Elisabeth Kubler-Ross: The grief model

John Fisher: The transition curve

Section 7: Work together

Introduction

Meredith Belbin: Team roles

Bruce Tuckman: The team development model

Ichak Adizes: Team management personality styles

Summary of Part 3

A final word on coaching Recommended reading Index

